FAMILY SUPPORT GROUPS

Partnered with the Advisory Board on Autism and Related Disorders (ABOARD), our support groups offer parents and other family members to access much needed camaraderie, resources, and support in relation to their struggles with the diagnosis of an Autism Spectrum Disorder. Our groups are facilitated by members of the Autism Team, yet remain parent-driven. The monthly group format varies between open discussion and topics or speakers based on feedback from our members. One consistent element of the groups is to share success stories about our children with a diagnosis. It reminds us that even the smallest of accomplishments speaks volumes, as our loved ones often struggle to achieve what comes so naturally to others.

Groups are held monthly in an FBR office unless otherwise noted, and are usually two hours in length. RSVPs are encouraged, but not required, for the adult portion of the group. We do require RSVPs for the social skill groups, so that we can ensure enough staff and materials for the evening. Families are welcome to attend more than one group to reap the benefits of support. Families need not be served by FBR to attend our groups.

SOCIAL SKILL/ PLAY GROUPS

Coinciding with our Family Support Groups, our social skill/play groups are offered for diagnosed children and their siblings in every region that FBR serves. Master's and Bachelor's level clinicians facilitate our groups with experience in developing social and age-appropriate play skills for children with autism and Pervasive Developmental Disorder. Our groups for children are structured to include highly structured therapeutic activities that focus on the development of social play skills and promote positive social interactions with peers. Children are grouped by age and level of functioning to encourage appropriate peer modeling. Snacks are provided to the children, and children with special dietary needs can often be accommodated upon request. Siblings are welcome to attend groups with their affected brother or sister.

SIBLING SUPPORT GROUPS

Our sibling support group provides an opportunity for positive interactions amongst siblings of children with autism. Groups are facilitated by an FBR Autism Team Representative or other clinician(s). Children have the opportunity to provide support to and learn from each other while participating in structured yet fun activities. These support groups are based on attendance and offered in our Bedford, Somerset, and New Kensington offices; however, we are open to hosting more as needs are identified.

ASPERGER'S SYNDROME SUPPORT GROUPS

The Asperger's Syndrome support groups are offered for older children on the Autism Spectrum. It is comprised of children who have Asperger's Syndrome (or a similar high-functioning diagnosis) that need a different level of activities from our Social Skill/Play Group. This group should not be confused with the Social Emergence group, since it is offered on a more informal level. Like the Sibling Support Groups, the Asperger's Syndrome Support group is based on attendance and offered in our Bedford, Somerset, and New Kensington offices.

ABOUT THE SPECIALIZED AUTISM SERVICES OFFERED AT FAMILY BEHAVIORAL RESOURCES

Family Behavioral Resources recognizes the unique needs of children with Autism Spectrum Disorders. Our approach to treating these children builds upon the concepts of collaboration and teamwork in ensuring the highest level of clinical integrity in the support we provide to children with autism.

The Autism Team has had extensive experience in the field of clinical programming for children with autism. Our team at FBR also takes pride in its commitment to meeting the individual needs of each community we serve. In addition to these ongoing groups, FBR holds Helping Others Potential Expand (H.O.P.E.) for Tomorrow Focus groups to identify needs within communities we serve,

Our Director of Family Support Services, Catherine Hughes, is a parent of a child formerly diagnosed on the autism spectrum. She is available to parents for consultation about available resources and information. You can call her at 1-866-4-FBR-ASD (office), or send email to autismservices@familybehavioralresources.com.

Questions regarding the provision of Autism Services at FBR can be directed to Rick Murray, LSW, BCBA, Chief Operating Officer at 1-866-4-FBR-ASD (office), or send e-mail to autismservices@familybehavioralresources.com.

If you are a parent or family member struggling with the diagnosis of ASD, we encourage you to call one of our office locations listed on the back of the brochure.

You can speak to an individual group facilitator, or to Catherine Hughes, Director of Family Support Services, about how our support groups can help your family.
